CATALOGUE
OF THE
Raffles Library,
Singapore.
1900.

SINGAPORE.
PRINTED AT THE AMERICAN MISSION PRESS.
1905.

The Raffles Library, the older and to the Singapore European resident the more important half of the Raffles Library and Museum, is an offspring of the 'Singapore Library' founded in the year 1844 as a Proprietary Library. When in 1874 Government decided to establish a Public Library and Museum—thenceforward on the suggestion of H. E. the late Sir Andrew Clarke the then Governor called the 'Raffles Library and Museum'—the 'Singapore Library' was transferred to the new institution, Government merely paying its debts of about $500 and allowing the Proprietors to become Life Members. The Library then contained only about 3000 volumes, the acquisition of thirty years, whilst during the last thirty years it has grown to more than 26000 volumes.

The present catalogue closes with the year 1900. Besides the Lending and Reference Libraries it also includes the Logan collection, acquired in 1880, and the Rost collection, acquired in 1897, of both of which there are also special detailed catalogues. It consists of three sections, (1) a general catalogue, alphabetically arranged under authors' names, (2) a list of the Works of Fiction only, and (3) an index of subjects and authors, exclusive of Fiction, in which the classification in Swan Sonnenschein's 'The Best Books' has partly been followed. A supplement for the years 1901 to 1905 will be issued shortly.

The compilation of this catalogue has entailed much extra work on the Library staff, and I must especially acknowledge the excellent work of the First Clerk, Mr. Kong Tian Cheng, whose assistance alone has made the issue of the catalogue possible.
